LIVELY WINTER IN PROSPECT

Retail Outlook Excellent.

Prolonged Period of Warm Weather Causes Unsteadiness.

Corner in Wool Will Result in Higher Prices for Clothing-Bank Clearings Jump.

Retail business was slightly unsteady ast week, trade having been unusually cavy some days and light on other days. The volume of business for the entire week was fully up to the standard and the prospects for a lively fall and winter trade continue excellent. The only apparent reason for the unsteadiness is prolonged period of unseasonably warm weather. With cooler weather yesterday, the Saturday trade was very targe.

Steady Gain in Jobbing.

Wholesale and jobbing trade continues to gain steadlly, on account of the unsually large amounts of supplies denanded in agricultural districts and mining camps. Money for desirable loans is one camps. As new for destrable founds is cory pientiful and collections are good. A feature of the real estate market is the increased demand for Inside business property, while a number of good home properties are also changing names.

Wool Crop Cornered.

Local increhants are receiving totification of advances in the prices of woolen goods, said to be due to the fact of fixit year's wook clip having been virtually cornered by the trust. The advance is from 5 to 3 cents a yard on clothing fabrics, which means that the average suit of clothes will cost about $1.50 more than formerly. Some observeds see in this advance another indication of the determination of the trusts to 'nog' the results of prosperity, and predict that maless, wages throughout the country are advanced to carrespond with the Becassed cost of living, another era of hard times will be due in the main ruther. This view does not coincide, hewever, with the reports of other prominent business men who have visited the East since election. These claim without reserve that conditions in the country at large could hardly be better; that the mills are putting on increased forces to meet increased demands for goods, and business men everywhere express the utmost confidence in the situation. Every indication, they say, points to the coming year being the most prespectors one the country has seen for more than a decade.
